

Great Schools Thriving Communities – Initiative 63 Ballot Measure - Signature Gathering

Script

“Hello. I am a volunteer for [org name]. I am collecting signatures to put a measure on the November ballot to support public school teachers and students without raising taxes. This measure will

- Provide significant additional funding for P-12 public schools without raising taxes or tax rates;
- Directs a portion of already collected income tax revenue to the constitutionally protected State Education Fund;
- Requires that these funds are used to “attract, retain, and compensate teachers and student support professionals”
- Removes these funds from the TABOR limit calculation.

Can I count on you to sign our petition?

Many voters may not understand what the petitioning process is all about. If they show hesitation about signing, don't give up. You may respond by clarifying,

“You're not committing to vote for anything by signing this petition. You're just supporting the democratic process — Coloradans value the ability to vote directly on important issues to our state. Will you sign to give voters a choice this November to expand educational opportunities for our students?”

If the voter still refuses to sign your petition, politely thank the voter for their time and ask the next person.

Talking Points:

- Public schools are a cornerstone for democracy, the pillar of thriving communities, the source of a prepared workforce, and an engine for economic success. We all win when public education is funded adequately and equitably across the whole state.
- We must ensure that every student has access to inspiring teachers, rigorous and inclusive curriculum, individual attention, quality career and technical options, and appropriate mental and physical health resources – especially after the challenges of COVID.
- Great teachers are the foundation of great education; their efforts for Colorado students have been heroic. Unfortunately, because they have been underpaid, overworked and not well-enough supported, morale among teachers and support staff has hit historic lows and many are leaving the state and the profession. They need to know we see them, we appreciate them, and help is on the way.
- Colorado has fallen more than $2,000 in per pupil spending behind the national average and is currently $500 million behind just keeping up with inflation since before the Great Recession more than a decade ago.
- Because of the combination of a hot economy and formulas in its constitution, Colorado is collecting $2 billion more than the legislature is allowed to spend on underfunded services. This is a once-in-a-generation opportunity to make a difference for students and teachers, without raising taxes.
- Only voters can unlock those funds so that teachers can afford to live where they teach.

FAQs on the Ballot Measure

How does Initiative 63 work? The measure will divert 1/3 of 1% of already collected taxable income (about $900 million) to the State Education Fund (SEF) and remove those dollars permanently from the TABOR surplus calculation. The SEF is already funded using this mechanism; Initiative 63 will double the current annual diversion to the Fund, and require the newly diverted dollars to be used to attract, retain and pay teachers and student support professionals.

Will this affect the $400 TABOR “surplus” rebate proposed by the governor for this August (or vice versa)? No. That rebate is for the Fiscal Year ending on June 30, 2022. Initiative 63 would not go into effect until January 1, 2023. Putting this on the ballot gives voters an opportunity to allow some future "TABOR surplus" dollars to be used to address Colorado's teacher shortage.

Is this a constitutional or statutory change? Statutory. It only needs 50%+1 vote to pass. We will need about 125,000 valid signatures – from anywhere in the state – to qualify for the ballot.
